FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Supervisor Kathryn Barger to Unveil Glendale COVID-19 Memorial Art Installation

On Friday, February 26, at 11:30 am, Supervisor Kathryn Barger will help Glendale Library, Arts & Culture unveil a Central Library art installation at an outdoor, socially distanced press event. “15,000 & MORE: A Plethora of Light & Darkness” is a memorial to the more than 15,000 lives lost to COVID-19 thus far in Los Angeles County and was funded by the City of Glendale Arts & Culture Commission’s Art Happens Anywhere COVID-19 relief initiative.

“15,000 & MORE: A Plethora of Light and Darkness” is an art installation of more than 15,000 silver and gold ingot-shaped, folded paper structures currently on display at the Glendale Central Library. The gold and silver ingots are attached in long groupings to a string and suspended from the Central Library’s ceiling (see photos). Best viewed from the front windows of the Library at night, each ingot within the exhibit represents a life lost to COVID-19 in Los Angeles County. It is both a beautiful and poignant reminder that while numbers of new cases are currently on the decline, daily case counts are still three times higher than they were in October 2020, and County reports have identified new strains of the virus in the community.

The exhibit is the brainchild of artist Connie D.K. Lane, who engaged several Glendale community members in crafting many of the ingots via an artist-pick-up-kit, made available at the Central Library in November 2020. Lane created a “how-to” video to instruct participants in the making of the ingots. The ingot concept is based on the Chinese ancestral worship of deceased relatives. The gold and silver ingots are typically burned in a special ceremony as an offering to one’s deceased ancestors in the afterlife. The exhibit will be on display at least through June 2021. This exhibit is sponsored by the City of Glendale Arts and Culture Commission as part of the Art Happens Anywhere program-COVID-19 relief initiative.

Artist: Connie DK Lane

“15,000 & MORE” is a memorial tribute to the lives lost from the Coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic in California. The concept is based upon Chinese ancestral worship of deceased relatives and family members with a special ceremony. This ceremony requires burning a mixture of gold and silver joss papers (ghost money) as an offering to the deceased. The joss papers are folded before being burnt to pay tribute to the afterlife. A mixture of silver and gold ingots differentiates the deaths of males and females from the coronavirus.

“15,000 & MORE” will be on display in the Central Library foyer in February 2021. This temporary art installation is sponsored by the Glendale Arts and Culture Commission, through funding from the Urban Art Program, in partnership with the Glendale Library, Arts & Culture department.

Thank you for your participation in “15,000 & MORE.” We sincerely appreciate your time and support in making this installation a reality. Participants will be able to pick-up ingot kits at the following locations:

Please practice with the origami papers provided before opening the package.

Visit the website below for a “how to fold the ingots” video:

www.glendaleartsandculture.org/15000andmore

1) Foil side down

2) Fold paper over to connect edges without creasing it.

3) Fold edges up no more than ¼” and 4) Fold up one more time to secure the edges

5) Hold the paper on both sides with thumb outside and index finger inside

6) Use the thumb to push the paper inside; simultaneously release the index finger

7) Push the paper inside with the index finger to achieve a pointed corner

8) Place completed ingots into the original brown bag.

9) Return completed ingots to the Library.

Please feel free to email me at conniedk.lane@verizon.net for any questions or your folding ingot.

Thank you for your participation in this installation!
