On July 21, 1969, at 2:56 a.m. Greenwich Mean Time, Neal Armstrong, commander of NASA's Apollo 11 lunar mission, became the first human being to walk on the moon. During a landmark TV broadcast, he proclaimed, "That's one small step for man, one giant leap for mankind."

You too can take a small step for man at our monthly Wilderness Workday by helping us water our recently planted trees and remove invasive plants from the park.

We have tasks for all ages and abilities. This is a great event for families, individuals, church groups, clubs, and students needing Community Service hours.
