

Springtime Sustainability

Earth Day 2022

Earth Day is on April 22, 2022! The theme is "Invest in Our Planet" with the aim of creating a new way of viewing change. The status quo is fear of change but the world we live in is constantly changing. The goal for 2022 is to embrace change and encourage all people, businesses, and governments to take action on climate change. Read more about Earth Day 2022 here.

Meet Elizabeth

Elizabeth Harris is the newest member of the Office of Sustainability, serving as the Administrative Associate! She is passionate about reducing her carbon footprint by reusing items, such as turning old tee-shirts into dog beds and donating them to the Pasadena Humane Society. At the University of Edinburgh, Elizabeth achieved a Sustainability Award for Student Residences and worked on the sales and marketing strategy of a local ethical chocolate business. While attending the University of Edinburgh, Elizabeth earned her Bachelor's degree in International Relations and a Master's degree in Innovation and Entrepreneurship. In her free time, Elizabeth enjoys hiking in Glendale and surrounding areas, baking, and fermenting foods. She also launched a digital magazine, called Toastee Mag, which celebrates extraordinary things of everyday people to highlight sustainability and social justice issues in the local community.
